

How can one grow up in Idaho and not love wood? From the time I was a boy in my grandpa's

shop, woodworking has delighted me. I still get excited over every single creation as the colors and textures come to life with the finish coat. You are invited to share my enjoyment and appreciation of this great western tradition through these fine hand crafted works.

How can one grow up in Idaho and not love wood? From the time I was a boy in my grandpa's

shop, woodworking has delighted me. I still get excited over every single creation as the colors and textures come to life with the finish coat. You are invited to share my enjoyment and appreciation of this great western tradition through these fine hand crafted works.

How can one grow up in Idaho and not love wood? From the time I was a boy in my grandpa's

shop, woodworking has delighted me. I still get excited over every single creation as the colors and textures come to life with the finish coat. You are invited to share my enjoyment and appreciation of this great western tradition through these fine hand crafted works.

How can one grow up in Idaho and not love wood? From the time I was a boy in my grandpa's

shop, woodworking has delighted me. I still get excited over every single creation as the colors and textures come to life with the finish coat. You are invited to share my enjoyment and appreciation of this great western tradition through these fine hand crafted works.